

Bonaire

Netherlands Antilles

March 22 - 29, 2008

(sold out)

Only 100 miles off the north coast of Venezuela, Bonaire is an island that will calm your soul and give you plenty of rest. Diving here is easy and amazing. The shore is littered with sites, marked by yellow-painted stones. Many of the sites are accessible via piers and stairs. Load the truck with your tanks and off you go to the site of your choice. No boat timetables, no crowds.

If boat diving is your thing, they leave daily from numerous resorts to Klein Bonaire. The water temp here ranges from 78 to 84 and viz is usually 100 feet or more. The entire Island is surrounded by a Marine Park so the reefs are pristine. They have also installed "reef balls" to encourage even more coral growth.
